FIRST QUALITY.--A fine large berry of good quality. One of W. F. ALLEN'S favorite berries. One hundred plants for 40 cents. Three hundred for $1.00. One thousand plants for $3.00.

SENATOR DUNLAP.--An early variety of fine quality. A standard variety everywhere. Plants must be kept restricted, and grown in narrow rows, when it is fine. One hundred plants for 40 cents. Three hundred for $1.00. One thousand for $3.00.

HAVERLAND.--A very productive, early market variety. Does well on all soils and locations. One hundred plants for 60 cents.

EWELL'S EARLY.--By far the best extra early strawberry fruited here in the past thirty years. So productive it picked a quart of fruit to the yard of row at a single picking. Good size and good quality, and so early, we had ripe fruit on our table May 25th. Worth all other extra early kinds ever fruited here. One hundred plants for 60 cents. Four hundred plants for $2.25.

FENDALL.--An extra large and very productive variety. Nothing can excel this variety in productiveness. One hundred plants for 60 cents.

JOE JOHNSON.--One of the largest and finest market varieties introduced for many years. A large, healthy plant. Fruit large to very large, good quality, and highly recommended. E. W. Townsend says, "The best market variety ever introduced." One hundred plants for 60 cents. Three hundred for $1.75.

CHESAPEAKE.--The finest table variety ever fruited here. Berry large to very large. Quality the very best, sweet and good. Season, quite late. We picked specimens last summer measuring six inches in circumference. This and Joe Johnson are the two large berries to plant. Price of Chesapeake, one hundred plants for 60 cents; three hundred $1.75.

RIDGEWAY.--This has been one of our standard fruiting varieties for the past fifteen years. Fruit quite large, good quality, very uniform in size. A beautiful and valuable variety. Thrives on clay soils better than any other variety. Season quite late. One hundred plants for 60 cents.

The Fall Bearing Varieties.

These fall bearing varieties, Superb and Progressive, are no longer experiments. They are the most valuable addition added to the list of fruit for many years. They furnished their first ripe fruit May 25th, and their last ripe fruit October 20th. Ripe strawberries all through the months of June, July, August and September was something unknown in olden times. I think they are so valuable I expect to increase my plantation of them by several thousand. Some nurserymen are asking from seventy-five to a dollar a dozen for the plants. I will warrant my plants genuine, as I have fruited them for three years, and I will sell for half these prices.

Description of Varieties.

SUPERB.--A fine, large, late fall bearing variety of good quality, originating with Samuel Cooper, of Delevan, New York. Season late and will pick until frost. A fine table variety, of large size, and considered one of the very best. Price of plants, 30 cents a dozen.

PROGRESSIVE.--This is an exceedingly valuable fall bearing variety, which originated with Harlow Rockhill, of Conrad, Iowa. We picked our first ripe fruit of this variety May 25th, and it picked ripe strawberries every week until frost. Think of ripe strawberries on your table for five months in the year. One peculiar characteristic about this variety is the fact that it is so productive that the young runners are set full of blossoms before the young plants are rooted. You will always know this variety by that freak. This variety picked us an abundance of nice fruit in only three months from the time we set the plants in April.

Price of plants, thirty cents per dozen. Special offer of two dozen Superb and one dozen Progressive, or ninety cents worth in all, for only seventy-five cents.
